

GSI Technology, Inc. to Present at B. Riley & Co. Investor Conference

August 4, 2008

SANTA CLARA, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--GSI Technology, Inc. (Nasdaq: GSIT) is scheduled to attend the B. Riley & Co. Cash-Rich Technology Stock Conference (CRTS) III scheduled for August 12, 2008 at the Le Meridien Hotel in San Francisco. A 25-minute presentation by Didier Lasserre, vice president of sales, and Douglas Schirle, chief financial officer, is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. PDT on Tuesday, August 12, and will be webcast.

GSI Technology, a component of the B. Riley & Co. Cash-Rich Technology Stock III Index launched in January 2008, designs and markets Very Fast SRAMs – high-performance electronic components for networking, telecommunications and other applications where speed, memory capacity and low power are essential. The company's product portfolio comprises the highest performance, lowest power, most flexible family of SRAMs in the market, which is driven by demand for high-bandwidth equipment that supports growth in streaming rich media and VoIP.

The audio and accompanying slides of management's presentation will be available live on the company's website at www.gsitechnology.com in the Investor Relations section on the Event Calendar. The presentation will also be archived on the website.
